

Registration for ADAC Cycling Tour open

The grand finale of the Lidl Deutschland Tour will be held in Magdeburg on August 24. Before the overall winner is crowned among the professionals, however, the final Sunday belongs entirely to the amateur athletes. The ADAC Cycling Tour, the amateur race as part of the Lidl Deutschland Tour, offers two routes in and around Magdeburg for riders to ride themselves. Starting places can now be booked at cycling.deutschland-tour.com.

At the ADAC Cycling Tour, all racing bike fans will find a favorite route. The "Kleine Börde Loop" is approx. 55 kilometers long and flat. This appeals to amateur athletes who are looking for an experience with fewer kilometers and altitude meters or who want to feel the racing atmosphere for the first time. The longer route, the "Große Börde Loop", appeals primarily to ambitious racing bike fans. At around 125 kilometers, the loop offers the complete Cycling Tour experience. On a somewhat undulating profile, 700 meters of altitude are covered around the state capital. Both routes end at the finish line of the Lidl Deutschland Tour professionals on Magdeburg's Schleinufer. Perfect for watching the pros after your own race.

Lidl Deutschland Tour finale to ride yourself

Ride your own road bike on fully closed roads - that's what the ADAC Cycling Tour offers on August 24 in and around Magdeburg. If you want to experience the Deutschland Tour atmosphere on a racing bike in the cycling state of Saxony-Anhalt, book your starting place at cycling.deutschland-tour.com.

A joy shared is a joy doubled - experience more as a duo but pay less

All early bookers will be rewarded with a particularly low entry price: you can join from just 85 euros, with many extras and even a free jersey included. And for cycling enthusiasts, couples, families and anyone who enjoys cycling together, there is a special tip: you can save up to 20 euros when booking two starting places. Experiencing the ADAC Cycling Tour together guarantees even more fun.