

Top teams confirmed for the Deutschland Tour 2022

Germany's most important cycling race once again underscores its key position. Two months before the race's start in Weimar, the Deutschland Tour confirms it will take place with the maximum of 14 teams from the WorldTour. Two ProTeams and four other German teams complete the list of teams.

BORA - hansgrohe leads the line-up of 20 teams on the Deutschland Tour. With Nils Politt as overall winner, the team impressed at their home tour in 2021. But strong competition for the only German WorldTeam has been announced for the upcoming August. The world's best teams are set to come: Jumbo-Visma, INEOS Grenadiers, UAE Team Emirates and Bahrain-Victorious form the Top 5 of the current world rankings with BORA - hansgrohe.

Intermarché - Wanty - Gobert Matériaux has riders in its ranks who left their mark on the last edition of the Deutschland Tour. Alexander Kristoff underlined his preference for German races with two stage wins and Georg Zimmermann showed his great talent by winning the jersey of the best young rider. Local cycling fans will also look forward to the international teams of many German pros. In addition to Team DSM, EF Education - Easypost, Israel - Premier Tech, Lotto Soudal, Movistar Team and Quick-Step Alpha Vinyl Team might nominate their German riders for the Deutschland Tour. The AG2R Citroën Team and Trek – Segafredo complete the list of WorldTeams.

From the second division, Alpecin-Fenix and B&B Hotels - KTM have received an invitation to this year's Deutschland Tour. After the German championships, which will take place next weekend, four more German teams will be selected to participate in the Deutschland Tour 2022.

The Deutschland Tour takes place from August 24th to 28th. Running on five days, the route leads from Weimar and Meiningen in Thuringia to Marburg before the final weekend is held entirely in the southwestern part of Germany. The queen stage starts in Freiburg and ends on the Schauinsland with the first mountain top finish of the Deutschland Tour. The final day runs from Schiltach in the Black Forest to Stuttgart where the overall winner is awarded the red jersey after 710 kilometers of racing.
